MOTHER FLAYS LENIENT PRISON TERM

Man receives 15 years for decapitating his friend. The mother of a 24-year-old man who was decapitated and had his limbs severed by his friend is disappointed with the 15-year jail term that his killer received.

Molly Ngema sobbed outside the South Gauteng High Court in Johannesburg yesterday after Siphamandla Gamede, 25, was sentenced to 15 years in prison for the murder of her son Nathi Ngema. He was sentenced to a further two years for attempting to defeat the ends of justice after he severed Nathi's limbs and threw them in a dustbin.

Gamede also burned the deceased's body in a bid to get rid of the evidence at a flat they shared in Roodepoort. Gamede killed Nathi after alleging that his friend attacked him with a knife in January. Gamede's mother described him as a respectful young man who was a qualified quantity surveyor and had graduated with a B-Tech diploma at the University of Johannesburg.

According to the indictment, Gamede alleged that he killed Nathi in self-defence after he accessed the deceased's foreign exchange account and traded with it. He pleaded guilty to murdering Nathi and attempting to get rid of his body.

Judge Mahommed Ismail described the murder as a barbaric, brutal, horrific and cruel betrayal of trust between Gamede and the family of the deceased. Despite this, Ismail sentenced Gamede to 15 years because he pleaded guilty to the charges.
